Complete your profile

• Create a strong professional summary. List qualifications and goals concisely and confidently, and complete the sections specific to college students, including: majors, minors, courses, projects, honors, awards and GPA.

• Describe experiences (can be Action Verb + Skill + Task = Result), including keywords and accomplishments.

• Incorporate related/industry keywords and phrases throughout profile (everything is searchable).

• Be strategic with your section layouts – put relevant information high on your profile.

• Watch for spelling or grammatical errors.

Participate in groups

• Update your profile regularly as it relates to desired work.

• Collect recommendations from professionals you have worked with – the best profiles show diverse recommendations.

• Research and join university-affiliated and industry-related groups.

Claim your unique URL

When you create an account, LinkedIn gives you a generic, random link to your page; follow the editing process to make your profile URL unique to you.

Use the alumni tool

Gain insight into a career path and network with NDSU alumni with similar majors and skills.

Actively update your profile

Update contact information, employment, current publication and/or projects, etc.
